ANNUAL REPORT.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
BOSTON, Dec. 31, 1889.

To His Excellency OLIVER AMES,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

SIR:—I have the honor to submit the annual report of this department for the year ending on this date.

MILITIA.

The force has performed its duty, and made good progress in many directions. Officers and men have been earnest and diligent, and fully comprehend that which is necessary in the attainment of excellence, and will, I am sure, during the coming year make still further advancement. Its standard is now high, yet there are many matters which require, and, as at present officered, will receive, the attention deserved, from which good results may be obtained.

The necessity for efficient commissioned officers is recognized, and the Board of Military Examiners, as at present constituted, has rendered valuable service. It comprises the brigade and battalion commanders, meeting monthly, and carefully inquiring into the capability and fitness of each officer coming before it, and has thus rendered aid in the advancement of the force. It is earnestly hoped that the obstacles now preventing the enlistment of much good material may be removed, and that business men and others will lend us their aid in perfecting our organizations by withdrawing their objections to the service.

Improvement has been made during the past two or three years, and there is yet room for improvement. I can in all sincerity say, that, in my opinion, the State force is worthy of all the care that has been bestowed upon it, and all the aid and encouragement a generous public can give it; good material means an excellent organization.

Reference is made with pleasure to the report of Captain D. Morgan Taylor, U. S. Army, specially detailed by the secretary of war to attend and note the mobilization of our Second Brigade at Lynn, October 3, and report to that department; which report may be found herewith.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Oct. 31, 1889.

To the Adjutant General, U. S. Army.

SIR: — I have the honor to report that, in obedience to instructions received from your office, I attended the concentration of the troops of the Second Brigade, Massachusetts State Militia, at Lynn, on October 3, and submit herewith the result of my observations.

I arrived in Boston on the 2d of October, and consulted with Adjutant General Dalton with a view to getting a comprehensive idea of the movement; and, as a result of this consultation, left Boston early on the morning of the 3d, and proceeded by rail to Salem, where, through the considerate courtesy of General Dalton, I found a horse awaiting me.

Salem is the headquarters of the Eighth Regiment, commanded by Col. Francis A. Osgood; and Company "H" of the regiment is a Salem company; the remaining eleven companies coming from Newburyport, Amesbury, Marblehead, Lynn, Beverly, Haverhill, Gloucester, Peabody, North Andover and Somerville. The companies were all promptly concentrated at Salem, and, after a march through the streets of the city, came upon the common, where I awaited them in company with the Inspector General. We took a position where we could see them to advantage as they passed us, and then followed them as they performed various movements in battalion drill. The men were excellently equipped and armed, and, in passing through their ranks when at a "rest," I took occasion to examine several of their rifles. I found them all well cared for and in good condition. I was agreeably surprised to find the men so well "set up," and so soldierly in bearing, and their behavior, both while in ranks and during the rest allowed them (and which was utilized to eat their lunch), left nothing to be desired.

While the regiment was at a rest upon one side of the common, I asked the officer in charge of the ambulance squad to let me see the drill of his squad, which he did. The men were intelligent, and showed the effect of careful training by the excellent manner in which their work was done. An ambulance squad was with each regiment when it concentrated, and, upon the formation of the brigade, the squads were consolidated and appeared in the parade under Lieutenant Clarke, just after the cavalry battalion, and made an excellent showing.

Leaving the regiment at lunch, I proceeded to the railway station, where, a very few minutes after the time appointed, the regiment marched in and embarked on cars which were waiting. In seven minutes from the time the head of the column entered the depot, the whole command was embarked, the men in their seats and the train in motion. There was no confusion or noise, and the whole movement showed the wisdom of having a drill for embarking and disembarking troops.

I would desire here to renew the recommendation made in my report on the concentration of the New York troops prior to the centennial parade of April 30; to the effect that instructions for this purpose should be incorporated in the tactics for the instruction of the regular troops. At present I do not believe that any regular regiment would compare at all favorably in this respect with any of the New York or Massachusetts regiments.

I accompanied the Eighth Regiment on the train to Lynn, and on arrival there left it forming (which movement was also well executed, and in an orderly manner); and, mounting my horse, I rode to the assembly point of the brigade, where I found Brig. Gen. B. F. Peach, Jr., commanding the brigade. After a brief conversation with him, in which he informed me of his plans, I took up a position where I could closely observe all the troops in passing, and retained it until the whole brigade had passed. The brigade was composed of the Fifth, Eighth and Ninth Infantry, the First Battalion of Light Artillery (two battalions), and the attached ambulance and signal corps. I have asked for copies of the official reports of strength present, and will submit them as soon as received.

A feature which particularly struck me, was the presence of an assistant inspector general with each regiment and battalion. They were present (mounted) with the regiment from the time of concentration until the men were disbanded, and during the parade rode habitually behind the organization to which assigned, moving from point to point, however, if necessary, to see all that was going on. As these assistant inspectors general are all officers who have served the State long and well in the various organizations of the militia, their just criticisms are both feared and respected, and their praise anxiously sought for; and their services are most valuable. The result of their labors is shown by the condition of the troops.

After the brigade had passed, I rode along the line of march, passing by or through the whole command while on the march; and, passing the head of the column, dismounted and took my place in a window overlooking a very substantial barricade which had been thrown completely across the street on the line of march. This was composed of large, heavy dump-carts, with tail-boards resting on the ground, their axles parallel to the axis of the street, and their shafts interlocked and fastened together with chains. When the head of the column debouched into the street at some distance from the barricade, the troops were halted, and a body of skirmishers selected from the qualified sharpshooters, and under the command of Major Frost, who commanded the Massachusetts rifle team in England, advanced in open order, in several ranks, to the attack, together with two Gatling guns. Arrived within a short distance, the front-rank men threw themselves on their backs, assuming the "Texas-grip" position; the next rank kneeled, and, with the remainder standing, the Gatlings were pushed up to fire in the intervals between the standing men and over the heads of those on their backs. As soon as this position was assumed, a rapid fire was begun, which would have effectually cleared the street in sixty seconds, and then with a cheer the skirmishers rose to their feet and carried the barricade by escalade, the Gatlings being turned and fired rapidly down the side streets. Two companies without arms then came up as a fatigue party, and, breaking the barricade with some difficulty, ran the carts into the side streets, while the skirmishers and Gatlings advanced up the street beyond the barricade.

The movement was excellently conceived and executed, the only adverse criticism possible being that the forward movement of the skirmishers was not promptly followed up by the main force, so that in case of real work the skirmishers and Gatlings would have been easily cut off from the main body. The Signal Corps was brought into operation here, using for the first time, as I was informed, the new Morse code, and finding it a decided improvement upon the former one.

The effect of this parade and sham street fight cannot well be overestimated. It gave the men confidence in themselves, their comrades and their officers, and could not fail to have its due effect upon any disaffected and discontented spirits there might have been among the spectators. There are few men so uneducated in the New England States as not to be able to reason from cause to effect; and but little of this would have been needed to show the utter hopelessness of any unlawful uprising, while there are in the State some five thousand such upholders of the law as were in ranks in Lynn that day. The effect of having these parades in different parts of the State each year, so that the orderly and well-disposed may see what the protection is for which they pay, and to convince the evil-disposed of the futility of any riotous movement, cannot fail to be beneficial.

I was informed by General Dalton that the State is very desirous of giving the men some experience in sea-coast service; and he intends to lay before the war department a plan for the utilization of some of the forts in Boston harbor for this purpose. In regard to this, I can only say that the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia constitutes a very important and efficient part of the reserve army of the United States, and it would appear to be for the best interests of the government to do all that it may to add to its efficiency. Besides which, it may with some reason be claimed that the State has a valid claim on the United States. The last return from the office of the Adjutant General of the army places the aggregate of the Massachusetts militia at 5,162, while the allotment to the State from the annual appropriation for arming and equipping the militia is $13,289.78, or about $2.58 per man. The total annual appropriation is $400,000, and the grand aggregate of the militia of the United States is 106,506, or about $3.76 per man. From this it is apparent that, under the operation of the system of distribution prescribed in the act of Feb. 12, 1887, and now in force, Massachusetts does not receive aid from the United States at all in proportion to either the number or quality of the troops that she keeps in readiness for service; and, if the war department can in any way assist the higher development of this already fine force, it would certainly appear to be the part of justice as well as wisdom to do so.

The cavalry, under the command of Major Horace G. Kemp, labored under the disadvantage of having had the march from Boston before I saw them, and consequently were no longer fresh nor in condition for close inspection, but nevertheless they looked soldierly and well; and Major Merrill's batteries left nothing to be desired in the way of artillery, except that the guns, although excellently well kept, were, with the exception of the Gatlings, rather antiquated. The men were soldierly, clothing, equipments and harness clean and in good order. In fact, for all of the troops present I have only words of praise. Well armed, neatly and serviceably uniformed, well drilled and disciplined, they were an impressive sight, and reflected great credit upon those officers who have given without stint their time and exertions to render the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia a worthy exponent of that military spirit which has been conspicuous in the Bay State from the earliest days of the Revolution; and the Second Brigade, as it appeared at Lynn, was a convincing proof to any military observer, that, if the United States ever again has occasion to make a call to arms, that call will be responded to from the State of Massachusetts by a force superior in numbers, equipments and discipline, and not inferior in patriotic spirit, to that superb offering of noble men which she so freely laid on the national altar in the dark days of 1861.

It is no less a pleasure than a duty to mention with gratitude the courtesy and considerate kindness of all the officers with whom I was brought into contact, and particularly of General Dalton, and Colonels Wellington, Currier and Barrett, of the Governor's staff.

I am, sir, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. M. TAYLOR,
Captain Ordnance Department.

[First Endorsement.]

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, NOV. 2, 1889.

Respectfully submitted to the secretary of war, with recommendation that this report be published for distribution throughout the army and to adjutants general of States.

J. C. KELTON,
Adjutant General.

The strength of the militia now authorized is: officers, 390; enlisted men, 5,468; a total of 5,858; and a naval battalion of four companies unorganized. The aggregate of the active militia on the rolls at this date is 380 officers and 4,751 enlisted men; total, 5,131, with a vacancy of one company of infantry.

The matter of coast defence is receiving the consideration of the general government, in which our citizens are much interested.

The militia of the State should receive from the United States government such material support as will put it in a condition to be of service as a valuable and efficient adjunct to the regular force in time of emergency. An effort is now being made to increase the annual appropriation to the States for military purposes, which, if successful, will give greater facilities to State troops for instruction, and fit them for any service they may be called upon to perform. I quote the following from the report of the Honorable the Secretary of War, commending the discipline and efficiency of the State troops, and recognizing their value : —

The discipline and efficiency of the national guard is universally commended. It was evidenced by their appearance at the centennial celebration in New York, April 30 last, and the promptness and celerity with which their concentration was effected. Of their value as a reserve military force, and an essential element in any feasible scheme of coast defences, I treat elsewhere. As an educational institution also it deserves encouragement and support.

I know of no manner in which a generous appropriation can be more advantageously employed to provide against future military contingencies, and believe that the current appropriation should be increased. The plan of placing a small force of the regular army with the militia of the different States in their encampments, as suggested from several sources, appears to me an admirable one.

As one argument in favor of sea-coast defence, the secretary says : —

Once built, the cost of maintaining a thorough system of defensive works is comparatively small. The major general commanding, in his report, estimates that it will require only 8,700 men for the garrison of defensive works in time of peace. This will be sufficient to care for the armament, and serve as a nucleus for the instruction of the militia of the sea-coast States, which must be relied upon to supply the men needed for defence in war, and which he estimates at 87,000. It is very important that the opportunity for this instruction should be provided at once. They are now being trained, and are quite efficient as infantry, light artillery and cavalry. This has been the best that could be done. But it is not probable that their services will be required in large numbers in either of these arms, for we do not wish to invade any other country, nor is ours likely to be invaded by land. Drilled in handling heavy guns, they will supply at a trifling cost the necessary reserve for the small regular contingent maintained in the defences. Skilled mechanics will seek a militia service, which will give them an opportunity to learn the machinery of modern heavy artillery. It offers to the national guard of our sea-board

States a new and attractive field for drill and study, and it is believed that they will take pride in training themselves to man the defensive works of their own ports, and will embrace the opportunity to do so as soon as it is offered. And there is no service in which men untried in war have won such honors or are so safe a reliance as in the defence of fortifications near their own homes.

There is an earnest desire on the part of the officers and men of our militia to perfect themselves in all the duties pertaining to the soldier; and opportunities should be given them to become proficient in the handling of heavy armaments, as a measure for coast defence, if they are to be called upon for the purposes mentioned by the Honorable the Secretary of War.

The naval battalion authorized by chapter 366 of the Acts of the Legislature, approved May 17, 1888, conditional upon the furnishing of arms and equipments and a vessel of war for the performance of duty, by the United States, has not been organized, for the reason that the conditions have not been complied with; but early the coming year the commander-in-chief will be enabled to effect the formation of this battalion.

Your Excellency's attention is directed to the law concerning independent military organizations, which is not in all respects as it should be. It has been held by many that the parading of such organizations in public with side-arms is not prohibited by chapter 411, section 124, of the Acts of 1887. It is suggested that this section be so amended as to correctly define its meaning, and enable cities and towns, when so defined, to enforce it as it should be, within their corporate limits. It is held at this office that this law applies to fire-arms only; and on this point the law should be as stringent as possible, as all armed bodies of men within the Commonwealth should be under the control of constituted authority.

All the officers of the militia are keenly alive to the importance of this measure, and can bring strong arguments for the position taken by them in the matter, as well as in the matter of the assumption of military rank by those who have never received commissions from either the national or

State governments. Titles and rank have become so common as to be a source of annoyance to those rightfully entitled to bear them. It is the prevailing opinion that only those entitled by reason of service and actual commission should wear the uniform of the army or the militia, or bear the rank and titles conferred by reason of such service.

TOURS OF DUTY.

The annual encampments were held as follows: First Brigade, M. V. M., June 11–15, at camp ground; Second Brigade, M. V. M., August 13–17, at camp ground; First Corps Cadets, M. V. M., July 16–20, at Hingham; Second Corps Cadets, M. V. M., August 6–10, at Essex. Annual drills were held by First Brigade (with exception of Troop F, Cavalry) at Worcester, October 14; Second Brigade at Lynn, October 3; First Corps Cadets at Hingham, July 15; Second Corps Cadets at Salem, October 11; Troop F, Cavalry, First Brigade, at Westford, October 11.

Under the orders of the commander-in-chief, special duty was performed on the occasion of the celebration of the centennial of the inauguration of President Washington, in New York City, April 30, by the Fifth Regiment of Infantry, First and Second Corps of Cadets, and a detachment from the Ambulance Corps, a report on which may be found herewith.

On the occasion of your Excellency's visit to Harvard College, June 26, Troop A, First Battalion Cavalry, under the command of Captain Wadsworth, performed escort duty. A detachment from the First Regiment of Infantry and Battery A exemplified the drill of heavy ordnance and Gatling guns, before the military committee of the Legislature, on their official visit to the State arsenal and camp ground in May last.

On Tuesday, November 26, an extensive fire in Lynn required the presence of troops for the protection of life and property. Companies D and I of the Eighth Regiment there located were promptly precepted by the mayor, in accordance with law, and were immediately placed on duty. It becoming apparent to the municipal authorities that a larger force would be necessary, a requisition by the mayor on your Excellency was placed in my hands by you at 11.15 o'clock on that night, and, under your instructions, I proceeded at once to Lynn by carriage, and after conference with the authorities went thence to Salem, and ordered companies E and K of the Eighth Regiment to report for that duty. Companies H and M of that regiment had already volunteered their services, and had arrived in Lynn.

Company K, Eighth Regiment, was relieved November 28, for unsoldierly conduct, and Company F of the same regiment placed on duty in its stead. The conduct of Company K was such on this tour of duty as to impel the colonel commanding to make a special report to your Excellency, which, after investigation by your direction, being confirmed, the company was summarily disbanded in orders November 30, and the officers and men discharged. Companies E, F, H and M were relieved December 1, companies D and I being retained on duty until December 5, when they were relieved by the mayor. November 28 another disastrous fire broke out in the city of Boston, and, although the service of troops was not required, the promptness with which officers and men of the local organizations voluntarily responded is highly commendable to the State militia.

That the service rendered by our troops under the command of Col. F. A. Osgood at Lynn was satisfactory (with the exception of that of Company K, mentioned above), is evidenced by the letter of commendation from the mayor of Lynn, and for prompt offers of service in Boston, by letter from the mayor of Boston.

CITY OF LYNN, MAYOR'S OFFICE,
Dec. 11, 1889.

Col. F. A. OSGOOD, Commanding Eighth Regiment, M. V. M.

DEAR SIR:—I desire to express to you, and to the officers and men under you, my sincere thanks for the great service rendered during your week's duty in our city. On Tuesday, November 26, at 11.55 o'clock A.M., fire broke out in a factory owned by Mower & Brother on Almont Street, and immediately extended to the surrounding buildings. At one o'clock P.M. the marshal telegraphed to adjoining cities for police assistance, and also requested our two local military companies to aid him in keeping the large crowd of people (which at this time began pouring in from neighboring cities and towns) away from the burning buildings. Within thirty minutes from the time they were called, Companies I and D, under command of Captains Brackett and Murray, had reported to the marshal, and did excellent service both during the afternoon and following night. At ten o'clock P.M., feeling the need of more assistance, I consulted with Brig. Gen. Benjamin F. Peach, Jr., and by his advice sent a communication to the governor, calling for more help. At one o'clock A.M. I received a personal answer from Adjutant General Dalton, saying that, by order of the governor, my request would be granted; and by two o'clock Company M from Somerville, under command of Captain Kirk, and Company H from Salem, under command of Captain Staples, had responded and been assigned to duty. At nine o'clock in the morning Company K from Salem, under command of Captain Dunney, and Company E from Beverly, under command of Captain Perry, had arrived.

I regret that the conduct of some of the members of Company K of Salem compelled you to relieve them from duty, but it only shows the thorough discipline and gentlemanly behavior which you require of all of your men. The place of Company K was very creditably filled by Company F of Haverhill, under command of Captain Jellison, who arrived Wednesday night.

Please extend to Lieut. Col. Mills and the members of your staff, together with your company officers, my grateful appreciation of the many kind acts rendered myself and the police department during your stay in our city.

Respectfully yours,

ASA T. NEWHALL,

Mayor.

CITY OF BOSTON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
Nov. 28, 1889.

Major Gen. SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General.

GENERAL: — In behalf of the city and the people of Boston, I have the honor to thank you and the militia for prompt and generous offers of aid at the time of our great fire to-day. Colonel Strachan of the Ninth Regiment, Colonel Mathews of the First, Lieut. Col. Edmands of the Cadets, and many other line officers, have personally reported for such duty as might be assigned to them. I request you to thank them in behalf of the city of Boston.

Respectfully,

THOMAS N. HART,

Mayor.

ENROLLED MILITIA.

The total number of enrolled militia, as reported to this office from the returns of assessors of cities and towns, is 325,185, being an increase of 12,747 since last report.

HEAVY ARTILLERY.

More time and greater facilities have been given to the prosecution of this work than heretofore. Three days' practice was had by a detachment of the First Regiment, at the encampment of the Second Brigade, in addition to the duty performed by that regiment at its annual tour of camp duty with the First Brigade, during which tours marked progress was made.

Arrangements are nearly completed with the United States government, which will extend the opportunities for practice, and enable the command to perfect itself in the duties required for coast defence.

RIFLE PRACTICE.

Much attention has been given to the important and essential duty of rifle practice, resulting in a large number of qualified marksmen, and assuming such proportions as to require a revision of the system, which is now under consideration, and contemplates the appointment of an assistant inspector general of rifle practice, to attend to matters of detail and the clerical work.

Your attention is respectfully invited to the report of Colonel Horace T. Rockwell, inspector general of rifle practice, which accompanies this report.

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT.

The military property of the Commonwealth is in good condition, all useless material having (after condemnation) been sold and the proceeds turned into the State treasury, for which the quartermaster general holds the receipts. The returns of property required from officers responsible show reduction in losses and improvement in care taken.

The equipment of Company C, Eighth Infantry, destroyed by fire at Marblehead in December of last year, has been replaced.

The old canteens, condemned and sold, have been replaced by new, drawn from the United States in sufficient number to fully furnish the force. There has also been drawn from the United States, on account of the annual apportionment by the general government for military supplies, 1,500 Springfield rifles complete, 1,200 canteens and 1,000 canteen straps, and various rifle parts.

A recent act of Congress declares that all property issued to the States under its provisions shall remain the property of the United States, and that such shall be accounted for by annual returns thereof. There is in the possession of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dummer Academy, Massachusetts Reformatory, and State Prison (which are accounted for by annual return), arms and other property belonging to the State.

New saddles have been provided and issued to Troops A and D, Cavalry, and to all mounted non-commissioned officers, the old having been condemned and sold.

CAMP GROUND.

The camp ground, with the exception of a portion, is in good condition. The copious and prolonged rains during the encampment of the Second Brigade, and the presence of so many men, cut up the ground and destroyed the sod. This part will require grading, to prevent the recurrence of the flooding of the tents, which happened at this encampment, to the great danger to health, and discomfort of the troops.

A small building has been erected at small expense, near the State headquarters on the ground, more room being required for guests and the accommodation of the press.

Butts of heavy plank have been placed in the rear of targets at the rifle range, as a precaution against accidents during practice.

Washrooms for enlisted men have been provided in the rear of the camp line, with running water, proving a great convenience and giving much satisfaction.

Resolve chapter 88, approved May 23, 1889, appropriated $6,500, to be applied to building tanks, laying pipes, etc., for the purpose of introducing water on the camp ground; and, after a careful consideration of the matter, it was decided to take water from Leonard's Pond, as sanctioned by the resolve. Contracts were entered into, and all was in readiness for the camp of the First Brigade in June. A substantial protection has been placed around the water tank, to guard against the possibility of damage from stray bullets; and a supply pipe for watering the streets during encampments provided, which reduces the cost of sprinkling to a less amount than has heretofore been paid for water alone. The water is of excellent quality, the best in that locality, as has been proved by an analysis made by the State assayer.

A new floor has been laid in the arsenal stable, and the stalls changed, to protect the horses from cold, to which they were subjected on the opposite side.

During the year instruction in field duties and engineering has been introduced, and, as object lessons, there has been prepared at slight expense, a small revetment, with rifle pits, abattis, and other kindred methods, resorted to for protection and defence in active service, where the men were instructed by competent officers, and in which much interest was shown.

ARMORIES.

Under chapter 384 of the Acts of the Legislature, approved May 18, 1888, — “an Act^s to provide armories for the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia,” — armories have been erected in the cities of Boston, Lowell and Worcester, which are now nearly ready for occupancy; and, when turned over to the adjutant general, an appropriation for furnishing and repairs will be needed (the amount of which cannot now be determined), and also for hire of janitor, heating and lighting.

There has been but one change in the location of armories, — that of the headquarters of Second Regiment from South Deerfield to Holyoke; and rents have been allowed as usual, based on the accommodations furnished, and in accordance with the law.

It is believed that it would be better if the State should furnish and have control of all armories; the militia not being maintained for the benefit of localities, but for the whole; and the expense should be shared in by all, through a just and equitable tax upon the whole State. When troops are precepted in cases of great emergencies to preserve order and protect property,—as was the case in Marblehead in 1888, and more recently in Lynn,—the cities and towns do not bear the burden, the pay and subsistence of troops while on duty being borne by the State.

The only change in organizations of the militia since last report is the disbandment of one company previously mentioned. The accounts of the office have been made up to December 15, and all bills forwarded for audit.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE.

The annual appropriation by the Legislature for this office, which includes the militia, armory rents, war and naval records and soldiers' messenger corps, is		$204,300 00
Expended for all purposes,		196,246 10
Leaving unexpended,		$8,053 90

Deducting from the above total expenditures ($196,246.10) the sum of $9,826.66 on account of war record clerks, postage, printing, fires at Lynn and Marblehead, and the expenses of the reception of the President, the expense of the militia for the year is shown to have been $186,419.44.

EXPENSE ON ACCOUNT OF NAVAL RECORDS.

Appropriation,		$10,000 00
Expended,		1,876 85
Balance,		$8,123 15

The large unexpended balance is due to the inability of the office to print the record this year, as will be shown in the remarks on the work performed.

The appropriation for water supply at the State camp ground was $6,500, from which $6,499.31 was expended, leaving a balance of 69 cents unexpended. The extraordinary expenses chargeable to the militia, but forming no part of the ordinary expenses, were as follows :—

Reception of the President of the United States, . . .	$1,600 00
Pay and allowances to troops, Lynn and Marblehead fires, . . .	2,066 66

There is no appropriation from which the troops on duty at Lynn can be paid, and provisions should be made therefor. I would recommend that an appropriation be made for emergencies of this kind, and placed under the control of the Governor and Council.

During the year the discarded and old material has been disposed of by sale, the proceeds of which have been turned into the State treasury as required ; and the account is as follows :—

Balance in Treasury Jan. 1, 1888,	$103 96
Received and turned over to the Treasurer of the Commonwealth from sales of condemned military property during the year,	1,640 37
	$1,744 33
Expended during the year for buildings at camp ground,	1,552 25
Balance remaining in treasury,	$192 08

Two thousand and sixty-nine letters and endorsements have been written during the year. Fourteen general orders, 120 special orders and 4 circulars, have been issued. One hundred and forty-four commissions, 85 discharges for commissioned officers, and 999 pay rolls, have been made.

Of the apportionment of the appropriation to the States for the arming and equipping of the militia, by the general government, there stands to the credit of Massachusetts at the war department, $1,564.84, which will be increased July 1, 1890, by about $13,000.

WAR RECORD AND CLAIM DIVISION.

Since the assumption by executive order, in 1866, of the prosecution of soldiers' claims, the amount collected aggregates $2,015,638.79, of which $20,248.33 was collected during and up to December 15 of the present year. From 1866 to the present, 11,960 claims have been recorded, 9,489 of which have been adjudicated favorably, and 2,042 unfavorably. During the year 35 claims have been recorded, 17 have been allowed, and 9 rejected; the whole number remaining unsettled, 437. Two hundred and sixty-five letters have been written to the war department for correction of records, 202 to the treasury department, 80 to commissioner of pensions; 60 endorsements regarding the status of commissioned officers, 6,340 certificates of service given, and 302 "testimonials" made. Miscellaneous letters answered, 1,695.

In view of the fact that the Legislature has created the office of pension agent, and that such officer has been appointed and has entered upon his duties, I would respectfully recommend that all records and papers in this office, pertaining to the business of claims, be transferred to the recognized agent, and that this office be relieved of this work.

The clerical force of this division can more profitably be employed in the important and necessary work of completing the war records, rendered imperative by the action of Congress, and in preserving the valuable records already obtained. By constant daily use the records are becoming worn, which will necessitate the recopying of some, and the rebinding of many, books of record; and in the completion of the final record of our Massachusetts soldiers much correspondence will be required. The transfer of the claim business should be made as above suggested, or provisions made to separate it from the routine work of the office.

NAVAL RECORDS.

The work on the naval records during the year has been more particularly that of reviewing, verification and indexing. The correspondence has been considerably increased in ascertaining the status and record of men enlisting to the credit of Massachusetts in other States, as well as completing that of the large number enlisting in the State. The data already obtained has been of great moment in the prosecution of the work, and has been of benefit to those interested; and fully substantiates the report of the committee of the Legislature, specially appointed in April, 1888, to consider the expediency of securing a more perfect record of the officers and enlisted men, from which the following is taken : —

A set of books adapted to the purpose has been procured, into which the names are copied as fast as the final record of each officer, sailor or marine is completed.

These books will contain nearly, or quite, thirty thousand names, so arranged as to be easily found, and show at a glance each man's service.

There are to-day about six thousand names of men whose final records are incomplete; and the work is being pressed with untiring diligence and energy by a former naval officer, who fully understands his duty, and what is required to make complete the history of his comrades, with whom he cast his lot and risked his life in sustaining the honor of the flag and integrity of the nation.

The Adjutant General is of the opinion that no portion of this work should go to press until its final completion, so that when done it shall be as nearly perfect as human foresight and care can make it. Your committee are in full accord with this idea, and fully believe that the increased value of the work for future reference will compensate for and amply justify the delay in its publication.

Changes in the bureaus of the navy department have temporarily checked the despatch in official correspondence. A large number of calls have been made on the navy department in cases of transfers from army to navy for completion of records, and upwards of seven hundred have been obtained and recorded. These cases are more complex than the direct enlistments in the navy, as in each case the service must be traced in both branches of the service. The Act of Congress of 1888, in relation to deserters, necessitates the change of record in many instances heretofore considered complete. Owing to these changes and the inaccuracies in the volumes of Massachusetts Volunteers published some years since, it was found expedient to declare the same unofficial; and, in view of this fact, every effort will be made to have the forthcoming list of naval volunteers from Massachusetts as accurate and complete as may be, and, if possible, to print the same during the coming year. For this purpose a renewal of the appropriation is necessary; but I do not feel justified in giving the list to the public in print until its accuracy is fully determined.

SOLDIERS' MESSENGER CORPS.

The remarks made in previous reports concerning this corps are applicable to the present time.

The annual appropriation is	$800 00
There has been expended for hats, caps, Thanks-giving, etc.,	$243 30
Compensation of superintendent,	300 00
	543 30
Balance unexpended,	<hr/> $256 70

The force is diminishing in number, owing to various systems inaugurated by business houses for the delivery of packages, the district messenger and telephone service, and other rapid means of communication, which have resulted in taking from these men much of the business heretofore prosecuted by them. Some of those remaining make a fair amount of earnings, but the majority earn but little. The members still report their earnings weekly, which range from $1.50 to $9.00 per week. If merchants and others having circulars to deliver in the city would send them to this office, they would be faithfully delivered, and the money paid for this service greatly benefit a deserving class of men.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

In 1876 the present regimental organizations were formed, in three regiments of eight companies and three of twelve companies. Now all are twelve-company regiments, and are not as well arranged as to locality as they can and should be; and I would recommend that the reorganization of these regiments be considered, for the purpose of centralization and convenience. Officers visiting the companies in their regiments are required to travel long distances, entailing expense to the State for transportation. Within an area of twelve miles may be found companies attached to three different regiments, and with one exception the field officers are more than fifty miles distant. The more compact the command, the more easily is it concentrated for embarkation at any point, and at the same time it is rendered more efficient by bringing it under the immediate control of its commander. This I consider a matter of great importance, and in its consideration the lines of railways should be taken into account.

The subject of increasing the number of days for tours of camp duty should also be considered. In some States the troops are ordered into camp for instruction one full week in each year. This department is of the opinion that more time should be given to these tours of duty, and, if possible, the days for the visits of citizens prescribed, and passes limited to such days issued to all respectable persons.

The time given to parades of ceremony, if excessive, is of doubtful utility; too often the drill and efficiency of troops is estimated by the lookers on by the manner in which the commands pass in review, mount guard, or perform dress parade. There are duties more essential, and in which the soldier should be instructed to fit him for the duties of the field in active campaign, and which should be practised at these camps; such as cleanliness of quarters, the carriage and bearing of the men, discipline, prompt and intelligent performance of all duties, which mark the true soldier, and reflect more credit to the individual and his company or regiment than all the pageants of ceremony.

The expediency of issuing white helmets to take the place of the black helmet in summer (during which most of the duty required is performed), and which can be procured at small expense, should be determined by a board of officers.

Your Excellency, this is the last report that it will be my privilege to make to you as commander-in-chief. During the three years of official intercourse with you as my chief, I have been the recipient of many distinguished courtesies and kindnesses at your hands. For this, and your always ready assistance and advice, you have my warmest thanks.

I am, sir, very respectfully,

SAMUEL DALTON,

Adjutant General.

REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR'S DEPARTMENT.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
INSPECTOR GENERAL'S OFFICE,
BOSTON, Nov. 14, 1889.

To the Adjutant General.

SIR:—I have the honor to present the annual report of this department of the State military service for the year 1889. All the commands of the militia were during the winter and spring thoroughly inspected, at which the State property was found to be well cared for generally, and, with due allowance for wear, in good condition. A majority of the commands were in good condition; eleven companies and one signal corps were found in fair, and four in hardly fair, condition. Of the eleven mentioned as in fair condition, seven have regained a proper standard by a change of commanders.

It is the experience of this department that the weakness in many companies is due to poor or neglectful officers; and this fact is apparently recognized by regimental commanders, who have in some instances requested that such officers be ordered before the board of examiners. The right to make such request, being sanctioned by law, should be taken advantage of freely for the improvement of the service, and should not be confined to officers of the line.

The four companies that have continued below the standard during the year have been warned by the Adjutant General of the measures that may be taken in case of failure to improve.

The "setting-up" drill in some companies is not properly taught. To be of benefit, this should be carefully explained in detail, showing the action of each movement upon the muscles in their development, and its general effect upon the carriage and appearance of the men. A uniform system for the instruction of recruits should be established and strictly adhered to; no recruit should be allowed to drill or parade in the ranks of his company until fully instructed in the manual, and properly "set up." As one uninstructed and ungainly soldier will mar the appearance of an entire company otherwise good, the importance of this is obvious.

CAMP DUTY.

The annual encampments required by law were held under the orders of the commander-in-chief, — the First and Second Brigades at State camp ground, First Corps Cadets at Hingham, and Second Corps Cadets at Essex, at which the routine duty was well performed. Cleanliness and discipline generally good; that of the Second Brigade not up to its former standard in some of its commands.

The weather at the encampment of the Second Brigade was rainy and discouraging, many of the company streets being flooded; and owing to this, and the attending discomfort, no severe criticisms should be made.

Guard duty as a rule has not properly advanced, owing, it is believed, to lack of instruction in armories, and in some cases to no instruction whatever. I have again to call attention to the remissness and neglect on the part of lieutenants in this duty, with the suggestion that, at the encampments of the coming year, such officers of infantry be placed under arrest, and competent and painstaking officers detailed in their stead. Much depends upon the character of the guard in actual service, for which this instruction is preparatory.

— The indiscriminate issue of passes to encampments of State troops is condemned from a military stand-point. While it is desirable and proper that respectable citizens should have ample facilities to observe the force maintained by and for them, the disorderly and undesirable element should not be permitted to be present, to the annoyance and discomfort of welcome visitors.

The following table shows the attendance at camps, exclusive of bands, and exhibits a good percentage of attendance at this tour of duty. The enlisting of men for the purpose of filling companies to the maximum at tours of duty is not general, but does obtain in some, of which battalion commanders are aware, and should take measures to prevent it. It does not always follow that a company held to the maximum by such means is a good company.

Reasons for absence were reported by commanding officers as follows: Refusal of employers, 159; on account of business, 90; surgeon's certificate, 76; without leave, 115. Nearly all reported as absent without leave were discharged by order of the commander-in-chief for neglect of duty, a few absences only being satisfactorily explained.

Of the companies in the First Regiment of Infantry, — companies C, G, H and I, — the full enlistment of officers and men performed duty; the smallest company in the command being Company M, with 53 officers and men. The average number in companies, 59.

In the Second Regiment, Company G was the largest, having 59 officers and men; Company H being the smallest, with 47; the average company attendance being 54.

The Fifth Regiment had one company (D) with every man present of a full enlistment, companies C and K having 52 each. Average attendance by companies, 54+.

Sixth Regiment: Companies A, C and F had every member of a full enlistment present; Company M had 47, and the average of company attendance was 55.

Eighth Regiment: Companies G, H, I and K had all present, Company E having but 43. Average attendance of companies, 54+.

Ninth Regiment: Company C had its full complement, the smallest company being Company F, with 44; the average being 53+.

Of the artillery, Battery A had every officer and man present. The balance of artillery and cavalry had good attendance. The mounted arm of the service is credited with the best tour of duty during the seven years it has been my privilege to serve as inspector.

The Ambulance Corps service at camp was well performed, and demonstrated fully its usefulness.

The performance of the Signal Corps was all that could be expected from its limited opportunity and appliances, and it should be supplied by the United States with modern "kits" (the only source from whence they may be obtained), and brought to a higher standard, or else merged into the Ambulance Corps, where more effective service may be rendered.

The camp duty of the Corps of Cadets was well performed in every respect, but the attendance was not what it should have been.

ANNUAL DRILLS.

The usual drills were held during the year, that of the First Brigade (with the exception of Troop F) at Worcester, October 14; Second Brigade at Lynn, October 3; First Corps of Cadets at Hingham, July 15; Second Corps of Cadets at Salem, October 11; and Troop F, Cavalry, at Westford, October 11.

The performance of duty by the First Brigade at Worcester was excellent; the exemplification of street-riot duty, though its first performance, was such as to reflect credit on the entire command; and the conduct of the enlisted men was admirable.

The Second Brigade assembled at noon, October 3, in Lynn: the Eighth Regiment Infantry assembling at Salem, the Ninth Regiment Infantry at Boston; the First Battalion of Cavalry going over the road mounted, with instruction on the march; batteries A and C going by rail.

The exemplification of the street-riot drill by this brigade was well performed, on the whole, and on its next drill an improvement will be noticed. The First Brigade had, at this (the initial performance in the militia) tour of duty, officers who carefully observed the manœuvres of the brigade, and were ready to note and to take advantage of any points gained, for the benefit of their own brigade.

The annual drill of the First Corps of Cadets was performed in the soldierly manner which characterizes this corps, on the day preceding their annual tour of camp duty.

The annual drill of the Second Corps was creditable, as was also that of Troop F, at Westford, on the same day.

The present manner of assembling the troops in the different sections of the State still commends itself, and should be continued; its practical results are manifest in the rapidity with which the various arms of the service embark and disembark on boats and trains, — infantry, cavalry, and the light batteries as well, — all in a quiet and orderly manner, the deportment of the troops en route being especially commendable.

The following is a summary of the annual drills: —

The average of attendance for all duties during the year is $88\frac{1}{2}$ per cent.

Company H, First Infantry, had its full complement, officers and men, present at the annual drill; Company K being the smallest, with 48.

In the Second Regiment, Company K had 53 present, Company L having but 37.

Fifth Regiment: The largest company was Company D, with 53, and the smallest company in the regiment, Company G, had 36 present.

Sixth Regiment: Company A had 62, while Company G had the smallest attendance, 37.

Companies G and I, Eighth Regiment, had 61 men each, with the smallest attendance in Company A, 40.

Ninth Regiment: Company G largest, with 58; Company L smallest, with 40.

The artillery and cavalry paraded in good numbers, and the Ambulance Corps of the Second Brigade had every officer and man of a full enlistment in its ranks.

The reasons given for the absence of men were as follows: Business, 194; refusal of employers, 256; surgeon's certificate, 91; uninstructed recruits not permitted to parade, 140; no excuse, 160. Most of the latter were discharged for "neglect of duty," a few making satisfactory explanation. It is proper to add in this connection that some seventy-five men reported for duty after the noon hour that were not reported on the "morning report," or returned for pay.

The decrease in attendance at this tour of duty is attributed in the main to the refusal of business men and employers to permit their clerks and employees to perform the duty required by law, under the penalty of losing their situations should they absent themselves from their ordinary occupations for this purpose.

From the tables of attendance it would appear that there is more objection on the part of employers to military service in the fall of the year, doubtless due to the fact that vacations are allowed in the season of the encampments, which are taken advantage of by the soldier to be present with his company, showing no reluctance on his part to perform his full duty. It is not deemed desirable, however, to change the time for holding these drills, but it is important that business men should realize the necessity for their co-operation in a system which has been devised and maintained for the protection of all.

While the militia of the State has attained a high standard in the estimation of the United States military authorities, there are still many matters of detail which should receive the attention of officers during the coming year for its further improvement. The Board of Examiners, M. V. M., have done much to improve the service by the care exercised in the examination of the officers who come to it through their hands. With good officers and earnest work, success is assured.

The duty performed by the Assistant Inspectors General of this department, and by Major Sanger, First Brigade, and Captain Thompson, Second Brigade, is highly commended.

Respectfully submitted,

SAMUEL DALTON,
Inspector General.

REPORT OF THE SURGEON GENERAL.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
OFFICE OF SURGEON GENERAL, BOSTON, Dec. 31, 1889.

Major General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General, Boston.

SIR:—In compliance with the regulations of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, I have the honor to forward you the report of this office for the year ending Dec. 31, 1889.

Very respectfully,

ALFRED F. HOLT,
Surgeon General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Dec. 31, 1889.

To His Excellency the Governor.

SIR:—I have the honor to submit my report of the work of this office for the year ending on this date.

In accordance with regulations governing the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, all the troops were visited at their annual encampments, and personally inspected as to their sanitary condition. The sinks were found properly disinfected, the cook-houses neat and orderly, as well as the stables, quarters and grounds, leaving little or nothing to be desired in this direction. Such neatness and order as was observed about the several camps could only be had by careful and repeated policing; and for work done in this direction both officers and men are entitled to credit.

Since the last annual encampment, a new water supply has been obtained for the camp at South Framingham, from one of the ponds in the vicinity of the camp ground; the water first being pumped into a large tank on the hill south of the grounds, and carried from here to the rear of the camp line by a four-inch main, and from here in smaller pipes to convenient points near the cook-houses. This arrangement gives an abundant supply of good soft water. The wells formerly used have been abandoned, except three or four which are used for the watering of horses. This new water supply makes it absolutely necessary for the comfort, if not for the health, of the troops, that some means be devised for carrying off waste water from the faucets and cook-houses. At the present this waste water is allowed to soak into the ground. As that which comes from the cook-houses contains more or less organic matter, the ground where it is thrown soon becomes offensive to both sight and smell, and more or less dangerous to health. If possible, this matter should be remedied before the next encampment.

The instruments, medical and hospital supplies, were found in good condition. Formerly the Surgeon General acted as medical purveyor, the medicine chests being sent to his office when needing to be replenished. As this custom was troublesome and expensive, a few years ago an order was issued allowing the senior medical officer of each command to purvey, such officer first submitting to the Surgeon General a requisition for his approval and authority to purchase such supplies as might be necessary. This plan has proved a saving both of trouble and expense, and assuredly has worked well, giving the medical officer the opportunity to select his own supplies both in kind and quantity. In a few instances, however, there has not been that care and discretion exercised that should have been, in expending public funds; and supplies have been bought in larger quantities than were needed, and sometimes at the highest retail prices. Considered as a whole, the plan is, I believe, a good one.

Early in the month of January the following circular was issued:—

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Jan. 18, 1889.

[Circular No. 1.]

The Ambulance Corps, M. V. M., will, until further instructions, thoroughly review the work of last winter, as ordered in Circular No. 2, dated Oct. 8, 1887. In addition to this, they will be instructed in the improvising and applying of temporary splints. As the temporary splinting of broken bones is all-important to ensure the comfortable transportation of wounded suffering with such injuries, to encourage the training of the soldiers of the Ambulance Corps in preparing and applying splints, the following prizes are offered to each corps:—

To the soldier making and applying the neatest and best temporary long splint for a broken thigh, Ten Dollars.

To the soldier making the neatest and best temporary splint for a leg broken below the knee, or for an arm broken above the elbow, Five Dollars.

These splints may be made of straw, bark, brush, pièces of boards, or such other material as would probably be found in the vicinity of a battle-field. This material must of course be obtained outside the armories; but the work of preparing the splints and their application to the plaster forms (if these are used) must be done in the armories, and under the supervision of the ambulance officer, or the sergeants of the corps. Further, these splints must be made with the knives, scissors, bandages, etc., supplied by the State, except that an axe or hatchet may be used.

The Surgeon General and the medical directors of brigade will constitute a board to award the prizes.

These corps will be inspected and the prizes awarded, in the First Brigade, at its first regular meeting, in May, 1889; and in the Second Brigade, at its second regular meeting, in May, 1889. No prizes will be awarded unless there are at least seven competitors in each corps.

[Signed]

ALFRED F. HOLT,

Surgeon General.

As the work was not ready in May, the awarding of the prizes was postponed. Thursday, November 28, the officers designated in the above circular met at Lowell in the armory of the corps of the First Brigade, to determine the prizes.

There were eighteen samples of temporary dressings applied to plaster forms furnished for this purpose. All of the contestants had fully complied with the terms of the circular, and the material used in preparing these temporary dressings was such as would be found anywhere, consisting of bark, twigs, pieces of wood, straw, etc. Many of these dressings showed marked ingenuity and skill in both their conception and application; and all of them gave practical evidence of careful and thoughtful work, showing a general knowledge of the reasons for such appliances, and the purposes for which they were applied.

Owing to the resignation of the ambulance officer, the prizes in corps attached to Second Brigade have not yet been awarded.

The necessity for a body of men trained in the care of the sick and wounded is now fully recognized; and nearly every State militia, as well as the regular army, has now its ambulance corps, either especially enlisted or made up from men detailed from the ranks. The Ambulance Corps of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia are made up of one commissioned officer and fifteen enlisted men to each brigade. This number is even too small to properly perform the duties for which they are enlisted at the annual encampments, and, in case of actual service, would be entirely inadequate. I therefore recommend that the number of men in each corps be increased at least to thirty.

The following changes in the medical staff have been made during the year. Resigned: one surgeon, one assistant surgeon and one ambulance officer. Commissioned: one medical director, three surgeons, four assistant surgeons, and one ambulance officer.

The attention of Your Excellency is respectfully called to the reports of the medical directors of brigades, and those of the surgeons of cadet corps.

MILITARY AID.

During the year 297 men have been examined for military aid and for admission to the National Soldiers' Home. These examinations have required my presence at the State House parts of three or four days every week. A record of each case has been kept for future reference.

Thanking Your Excellency for your many courtesies, I am, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

ALFRED F. HOLT,

Surgeon General.

REPORT OF CHIEF MEDICAL OFFICERS.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND BRIGADE, M. V. M.
BOSTON, Sept. 10, 1889.

Brigadier General ALFRED F. HOLT, Surgeon General, Massachusetts.

SIR: — I have the honor to make the following medical report of the encampment of Second Brigade, M. V. M., at South Framingham, Aug. 13 to 17 inclusive, 1889.

The weather was extremely unfavorable for the performance of camp duty, the heavy rain of Tuesday and Wednesday leaving the ground very wet and muddy, and rendering the tent floors and tents damp and uncomfortable. Notwithstanding this, the number of men reported sick each day was very small, on two days each organization reporting none sick.

The policeing of the camp was carefully attended to, although the wet and soggy condition of the ground detracted very much from the good appearance of the camp.

The new water supply proved a great success, and was fully appreciated by every one.

The waste barrels are many of them broken and unfit for use, and will have to be replaced before another encampment.

The new wash-stands and shelters for the men were very convenient and satisfactory.

The hospital tents issued to the different organizations were a great improvement over those used for the last two years; but, owing to some mistake, the furniture and bedding belonging to them could only be issued to one regiment.

The Ambulance Corps performed its duties most satisfactorily, and, as formerly, furnished a permanent detail for the brigade hospital.

I most respectfully suggest that sinks be provided at the guard house, as at present the condition about it, at the latter end of the week's encampment, is anything but wholesome.

I have the honor to be, most respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

THOMAS KITTREDGE,
Lieutenant Colonel and Medical Director.

BOSTON, MASS., Sept. 4, 1889.

Brigadier General ALFRED F. HOLT, Surgeon General, Massachusetts.

SIR: — I have the honor to submit the following report of the encampment of the First Brigade, M. V. M., at South Framingham, for the five days ending June 15, 1889.

The health of the command was excellent, there being but ten cases admitted to the brigade hospital. No case of severe illness or injury occurred during the five days. The new supply of drinking water was admirable, and free from all injurious ingredients. The camp was at all times satisfactorily policed, and the stables were kept neat and clean. A recommendation was made to the surgeons of the different organizations, that the caterers of the respective companies should submit for approval their bills of fare, in order that indigestible articles of food might be excluded. There is a growing feeling among the surgeons of the brigade, that, with our new water supply, it is desirable that bathing facilities should be afforded the men. This I most respectfully recommend.

E. E. Balch of the Ambulance Corps was detailed as acting hospital steward, and most satisfactorily filled those duties.

I would respectfully call your attention to the following recommendation, by Lieutenant Standish of the Ambulance Corps: "Every man of the corps was present, yet, in order to maintain a proper detail with the ambulance, and also a proper detail at the hospital to receive and care for its patients, required that each enlisted man should be thus detailed for what is the equivalent of guard duty for an infantry soldier for thirty-six out of every forty-eight hours. This close confinement to quarters is too much to reasonably expect of the men, and the size of the corps should be increased." This I most strongly recommend.

I would respectfully suggest that each regiment and unattached company be provided with a hospital tent before the next encampment.

I beg leave to express my thanks to the medical staff of the brigade for promptness, and fidelity to their duties.

Accompanying this report are the reports of the surgeons of the different organizations in the brigade. The consolidated morning sick reports have already been forwarded.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

HERBERT L. BURRELL,

Lieut. Col. and Medical Director, First Brigade, M. V. M.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST CORPS CADETS, M. V. M.
BOSTON, July 22, 1889.

Brigadier General A. F. HOLT, Surgeon General, Massachusetts.

GENERAL : — I have the honor to submit the following report of the medical department of the First Corps of Cadets during the encampment at Hingham, from the 13th to the 20th of July, inclusive.

The weather during the week, as will be seen by reference to the metereological record, while not all that could be desired, was fair. A heavy rain storm on Monday interfered with the general routine of camp duty, and again on Saturday morning the rain rendered the breaking up of the camp a disagreeable work.

The health of the corps was most excellent. The calls made on the medical department were far less numerous than in any previous camp at which I have been present. The hospital was used merely to ensure quiet to the men who in quarters would have been less comfortable, owing to the noise of the camp, occasioned by the crowd of visitors during the band concerts in the evenings.

As in previous camps, the dietary was daily submitted to the examination of the medical department. The quality of the food was excellent, and the supply abundant.

The new mess-house has proved a great addition to the camp ground, not only during meal-times, but, in case of rain, as a hall for drill purposes. The kitchen department in the rear is, however, altogether inadequate to the demands made upon it. It is a matter of congratulation that this defect will probably be remedied before another camp.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. L. RICHARDSON,
Surgeon.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND CORPS CADETS, M. V. M.
SALEM, MASS., Sept. 20, 1889.

Brigadier General ALFRED F. HOLT, Surgeon General, Massachusetts.

GENERAL : — In compliance with the regulations of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, I submit the following as my report of the medical department of the Second Corps Cadets during the encampment at Essex, August 5 to 10 inclusive.

We left Salem with threatening weather, and when we reached Essex rain was beginning to fall. Our tents being pitched, however, the luggage escaped a wetting. The weather cleared before evening, and Tuesday was a fine day, also Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Saturday, rain fell in the early morning, but it cleared and became very hot in the middle of the day. On Wednesday, during the dinner hour, we had a treat in the shape of a hail storm, falling in such quantities that between the rows of tents ridges of hail stones could be seen for several hours after. Considering the bad weather which prevailed before, and what we have since experienced, we are to be congratulated on "our week at camp," for what rain we did have in no way interfered with camp duty.

As regards the health of the men, I can say that there were no severe cases of sickness. The change of drinking water in the majority of cases seems to be the cause for the troubles seen at camp, and also in trips away from home. This was especially noticable in April, on our trip to New York and back. The well near the cook-house was condemned for drinking purposes, water being used for this purpose which was brought from the well at the south-eastern part of the grounds. The food was of good quality, abundant in quantity and properly cooked. The sanitary condition of the camp was excellent, police duty keeping the grounds in a state of perfect cleanliness. The sinks were kept in good condition by the use of fresh earth and chloride of lime.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

BENJ. R. SYMONDS, Jr.,

Surgeon Second Corps Cadets.

The State rifle matches occurred at South Framingham, on the 26th of September, and were attended by eighty-three company teams and ten staff teams, or something over seven hundred and fifty officers and men, the largest attendance on record. Unfortunate weather conditions delayed the shooting, so that it became necessary to permit about twenty men to report at a later date for the purpose of completing their scores. The average of the shooting was better than in any previous year.

For the fourth successive year our State team won at Creedmoor the two great military trophies of the season, — the “Hilton Trophy” and “Soldier of Marathon.”

A notable incident of the year was a voluntary trip abroad by a rifle team made up from officers and men belonging to the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, ten of the twelve shooting members having, in fact, served upon the Creedmoor team. Maj. J. P. Frost, A. I. G. R. P., Second Brigade, was in charge of the party. In England this team encountered three teams representing as many regiments of English volunteers, and two others representing strong shooting organizations, and was successful in every case. Considering the long experience and high reputation of the English volunteers, this result was very creditable to the men of our State. It demonstrated not only their individual excellence, but the unsurpassed merit of our national infantry arm.

In respect to our present system of rifle practice, I stated in my report of last year that the work done and results accomplished indicated progress, and the system was working satisfactorily “for the time being.” I added, however, some suggestions with reference to possible change and improvement, which have only been acted upon in a very limited way, but which are still pertinent. I have long recognized the difficulties attending an attempt to make rifle practice equally obligatory with other duty; but I believe the time has come when the State should require the duty, and that, if in enforcing the requirement it becomes necessary to slightly increase expenditures, the outlay will be more than repaid. The esprit du corps which has induced some of our organizations to voluntarily make considerable outlays beyond the allowances of the State, cannot be relied on throughout the force; nor can it be expected that those who have heretofore done so will still continuously maintain their high standard at a large pecuniary cost to themselves.

I recommend: —

1. That all organizations equipped with small arms be required to parade by companies (or battalions, when practicable) on two days in each year, for rifle practice, and be allowed compensation at the rate of one dollar per man for each day's duty; also that each organization be permitted two other days for voluntary practice (and qualification), with allowance for actual transportation.

2. That, on all assigned dates, inspectors or other officers detailed be present to supervise and verify the work; pay and transportation to be allowed.

3. The above allowances to supersede any issues of, or allowances for, ammunition.

4. That armory practice with ball cartridge be discontinued as a requirement.

5. That, with a view to facilitate as to convenience of ranges, and to simplify with respect to badges, our present requirements for qualification be revised.

These recommendations involve some radical innovations. I do not enlarge upon the advantages to be gained, as I think they will be apparent to all who have an intelligent understanding of the subject. If the general plan here outlined meets with favor, and there is no serious obstacle of a pecuniary nature, the details of administrative changes can be arranged without difficulty.

Appended to this report will be found the lists of qualified marksmen, and memoranda of the scores of our State militia in the State matches and elsewhere.

Very respectfully your obedient servant,

H. T. ROCKWELL,
Colonel and Inspector General of Rifle Practice.

XI. All troops will report in heavy marching order, including haversacks and canteens; overcoat straps will be carried in knapsacks.

XII. An allowance of fifty cents per man will be allowed to each officer and enlisted man (excepting bands), for a ration after dismissal in Boston, May 2. Commanding officers will arrange for the same in such manner and at such places as they may elect; but troops must leave for armories at the hours named in this order. The allowance will be paid to the paymasters of the various commands upon number on pay-roll, and by them distributed to companies.

XIII. Luke R. Landy, Superintendent State Arsenal, will have charge of transportation of horses, horse equipments for State headquarters and State ambulance for troops, and will receive instructions from this office.

XIV. Transportation and stabling for horses for the various commands will be furnished by this department.

XV. In compliance with the request of Major General J. M. Schofield, U. S. A., Chief Marshal of the parade, April 30, 1889, the following-named officer of the staff of the Commander-in-Chief is hereby detailed as an aide on the staff of the Chief Marshal, and will report to this office for instructions: Col. Edward E. Currier, A. I. G. Col. Currier will report to Gen. Schofield's headquarters, Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, at 5 o'clock P. M., April 29, for instructions.

XVI. Battalion commanders will be governed by U. S. regulations for troops on board of transports.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,

Adjutant General.

Boston, May 3, 1889.

Major General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General.

SIR : — In compliance with Special Orders, No. 28, I beg leave to submit the following report on the State representation at the Washington centennial inaugural celebration in New York, April 29, 30, and May 1.

The State delegation assembled at the State House on Sunday, April 28, at two o'clock P.M., and were furnished with badges, itinerary and tickets to various ceremonies and places. At 2.30 o'clock took carriages to the Old Colony depot, from which they started promptly at 3 o'clock, arriving at Newport at 5.23, and leaving by steamer "Providence" at 6.40, arriving at New York at 5.25 on the morning of April 29, without other incident than an unusually rough passage. At 7.45 o'clock the party went on board the steamer "City of Hudson," which took them to foot of West 22d Street, where they took steamer "Monmouth," and steamed down the harbor and saw the naval parade, which was, in the estimation of many, the grandest feature of the entire celebration; after which His Excellency Governor Ames, with detail of staff officers, His Honor Lieut.-Governor Brackett, Commissioner Tower, Speaker Barrett, with delegation of Councillors, Senators, Representatives, and Sergeant-at-Arms Adams, left the steamer at foot of Wall Street, and attended the reception given by the Committee on States at the Equitable Building. The remainder of the party returned to West 22d Street, where carriages were in waiting to take them to the Windsor Hotel, where the delegation was quartered during its stay in New York. On the evening of the 29th the Governor and party attended the grand ball at the Metropolitan Opera House.

On the morning of the 30th His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, with a detail of staff officers, took his position at the head of the Massachusetts troops for the military parade, during which the fine appearance of all called forth much enthusiasm along the whole line of march. The remainder of the delegation proceeded to the grand stand, to witness the review of the troops by the President. The delegation was represented by Commissioner Tower and two Councillors at the literary exercises held at the Treasury Building at ten o'clock A.M.

On the evening of the 30th His Excellency Governor Ames, Commissioner Tower and Speaker Barrett attended the centennial banquet at the Metropolitan Opera House.

On the morning of May 1 many of the party witnessed the industrial and civic parade; while others, availing themselves of the carriages that had been at their service during their entire stay, visited the park and various places of interest.

About twelve o'clock Governor Ames had a sudden illness from over-fatigue, and it was deemed best that he should return to Boston by rail, instead of the boat; which he did by five o'clock Shore Line train, accompanied by Surgeon General Holt, one of his aids, Assistant Surgeon Green of First Corps of Cadets, and Commissioner Tower, arriving in Boston at 11.50 o'clock P.M.

The remainder of the delegation left the Windsor Hotel at 3.10 o'clock P.M., arriving at Pier 28, via steamer from 22d Street, at 5 o'clock, leaving there on steamer "Providence" at 5.25 P.M.; and leaving Newport at 8.10 A.M., May 2, arriving at Boston at 10.45 o'clock, where they were met by His Excellency Governor Ames and Commissioner Tower, who took their places in carriage, and were escorted to the State House, where the delegation assembled and received the usual honors from the troops.

A pleasant incident on the return trip was the meeting of the delegation just before leaving the steamer at Newport, at which His Honor Lieut.-Governor Brackett presided; and, on motion of Senator Sprague, chairman of the joint committee on Centennial, seconded by Major Merrill, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—

The Massachusetts delegation to the centennial celebration of Washington's inauguration, desire to express to Adjutant-General Dalton their sincere appreciation of the comprehensive foresight with which he arranged, and the vigilant and efficient energy with which he carried out, all the details of the visit to New York. Through his efforts, zealously seconded by the bodies of the militia designated for the duty, Massachusetts was enabled to perform a worthy part in the military celebration, befitting the ancient renown of the Commonwealth. For his constant kindness and unremitting care for their comfort and accommodation, the members of the delegation are under a personal obligation to him, which they gratefully acknowledge.

Accompanying this report you will find an official programme, and Boston and New York papers, with full accounts of the celebration.

Very respectfully,

ALBERT L. NEWMAN,
Colonel and Aide-de-Camp.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH REGIMENT OF INFANTRY,
SECOND BRIGADE MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER MILITIA,
BOSTON, May 24, 1889.

Major General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General.

SIR : — I have the honor to submit the following report of duty performed by the Fifth Regiment of Infantry, M. V. M., under Special Orders, No. 5, c.s. A. G. O., and Special Orders, No. 28, c.s. A. G. O., in connection with the centennial celebration in New York of Washington's inauguration as president of the United States.

In accordance with Special Orders, No. 28, the field and staff officers of the regiment (excepting Maj. William H. Oakes and Lieut. Edgar Dwight Hill, Assistant Surgeon), the non-commissioned staff officers, the headquarters attachés, and companies C, E, F, G, L and M, assembled at the Old Colony railroad station on Kneeland Street, Boston, and boarded a train especially provided to convey them to Newport. In connection with the embarkation of the troops and loading of horses, Lieut. Frederick P. Barnes, Quartermaster, and Lieut. Richard W. Sutton, Paymaster, reported to Col. Edward E. Currier, Assistant Inspector General.

The train left the station at 3.05 P.M., and, upon its arrival at South Braintree, was increased by the addition of two cars containing Company D and the regimental band. Company K boarded the train at this place, occupying the car in which the headquarters party of the regiment had ridden from Boston. The headquarters party, under instructions, proceeded to the car already filled by the band, in which most of them stood until the arrival of the train at Newport, two hours later.

Reaching Newport at 5.30, the officers and men of the regiment were marched on board the steamer "Providence," and were immediately assigned quarters.

Lieut. Col. G. Frank Frost reported to the Adjutant General as field officer of the day, and Maj. Charles C. Foster, Surgeon, and Lieut. Robert B. Edes, Inspector of Rifle Practice, reported to Col. Frederick W. Wellington, Assistant Inspector General, for duty in connection with the rations of the troops. A regimental guard was mounted, in accordance with the United States regulations for transports, the commander of the guard (Lieut. David C. Scott, Company C) acting as officer of the day, and the sentinels carrying side-arms only. In rounding Point Judith unusually rough water was met, and, as a consequence, many officers and men were sick. Most of the men had been provided with rations in haversacks, but supper was served for those who cared to eat.

The "Providence" reached her dock in New York about 5 o'clock, April 29, and breakfast was at once served. Between 7 and 8 o'clock the officers and men of the regiment were marched ashore, transferred to an annex boat, and carried to 23d Street. The horses were disembarked at the first landing, and those belonging to the regiment were ridden to 23d Street. Upon landing at 23d Street, having received instructions to proceed to quarters, line of march was taken up without delay, and quarters at Wendal's Assembly Rooms on 44th Street were reached at about 10 o'clock.

Companies A, B and H had assembled at the Old Colony railroad station in Park Square, Boston, on April 28, and, under the command of Major Oakes, accompanied by Dr. Hill, had boarded a train which left for New York, via the Shore Line, at 10.30 P.M. At Attleborough they were joined by Company I. The detachment reached New York at 6 A.M., April 29, and proceeded at once to Wendal's Assembly Rooms, where breakfast was served. Upon the arrival of the main body of the regiment, the companies of the detachment were found drawn up in line, and Major Oakes reported but one man absent in the detachment, of the maximum number allowed by law, making the total strength of the regiment 788.

A guard was at once mounted, with Capt. George H. Swazey, Company L, as officer of the day, and First Lieut. William H. Brigham, Company M, commander of the guard; Second Lieut. David C. Richards, Company L, junior officer; and a detail of one sergeant, three corporals, one musician and thirty-six privates. The guard was made large, as there was a disposition shown by many of the men to leave quarters; and, in view of the duty to be performed, it was not deemed best to grant this liberty until after supper.

Dinner was served at 12 M. in the armory of the First Battery, N. G. S. N. Y., Capt. Louis Wendal (the proprietor of the halls in which the regiment was quartered), located immediately under quarters. Tables sufficient for more than two-thirds the regiment were laid, so that all the men were easily fed in two detachments. The quarters were in an objectionable part of the city, and were not good; but they were the best that could be obtained, and, though they doubtless had a depressing effect, yet Captain Wendal, the contractor for quartering and rationing, kept his agreement fully. The food was of good quality and of sufficient quantity, such as had been contracted for. This the commanding officer of the regiment asserts, having closely observed the tables; although the impatience or fastidiousness of some of the members of the regiment led them to believe otherwise.

At 3 o'clock P.M., the regiment having been excused from State duty, regimental line was formed, and the twelve companies, twenty-four files, double rank, marched to Fifth Avenue, left at 42d Street, to receive and escort to its quarters, at the Grand Central Hotel, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, upon its arrival from Boston at the Grand Union Depot. The escort was satisfactorily performed, the column passing down Fifth Avenue, Ninth Street and Broadway, returning by way of Fifth Avenue. Upon reaching quarters, supper was at once served, after which the men were allowed to leave on pass until 11 P.M. At this hour all but thirty men had reported, and these came in before taps at 11.30.

On Tuesday, April 30, reveille was beaten at 5.45, breakfast was served, and line was formed at 8 o'clock to take part in the grand parade. A lunch, furnished by Captain Wendal, as per contract, was carried in the haversacks. Two members of Company L reported for duty after breakfast, increasing the strength to 790. The regiment marched by way of 8th Avenue, 40th Street, 4th Avenue, the Bowery and Pearl Street, to its position, right on Whitehall Street, where at 9.40 it reported to the Adjutant General. The regiment took part in the parade, was reviewed by the President at Madison Square, and was dismissed at 4.30 P.M., at 57th Street, whence it marched via Seventh Avenue to its quarters. Supper was served at once, and the men were given liberty on pass until 11 o'clock.

On Wednesday, May 1, reveille was beaten at 6.30, and, as soon as breakfast was served, the men were given liberty until 12 M. The duties of the officer of the day and commander of the guard were most efficiently discharged by First Lieut. C. F. Spear of Company G. At 3 P.M. the assembly was sounded, dinner having been served at 1 o'clock; and companies C, D, E, F, G, K, L and M fell into line, to return to Boston. While the companies were assembling, a private of Company E, who was intoxicated, became insubordinate, and refused to put on his accoutrements. He was finally put in confinement, his uniform taken off, and he was brought to Boston by rail with Major Oakes' detachment on that night. The companies above enumerated, with the field and staff officers (except those assigned to the detachment of Major Oakes), and the regimental band, marched to 23d Street, and, joining the suite of His Excellency and the two corps of cadets, were conveyed by an annex boat to the Old Colony pier, and marched on board the steamer "Providence" about 5 o'clock.

The same disposition as to quarters and rations were observed as on the trip of Sunday night. While Company E was at supper, a private of this company used indecent language in the hearing of Colonel Wellington, then supervising rations; and, upon that officer's report of the fact, I ordered the private to be placed in confinement in the baggage room. After supper I caused Company E to be assembled, and spoke to them with some emphasis of the conduct of some of their members, and cautioned all concerning their behavior. By permission from the Adjutant General, the members of this company were allowed to sleep on the saloon deck on the return trip, in place of in the quarters assigned them on lower deck forward, — a decidedly unwholesome place. The permission was hailed with pleasure by the men, and during the rest of the tour of duty the conduct of this company was exemplary.

The "Providence" reached Newport May 2, at 5 A.M.; and, after breakfast was served, the companies were marched aboard the train which left for Boston about 8 o'clock. The train reached this city shortly after 10.30 A.M., and found companies A, B, H and I drawn up in line beside the railroad station. These companies had left New York at 10.30 P.M. of the night before, and had reached Boston at 6 A.M. They marched directly to the armory of the First Corps of Cadets on Columbus Avenue, to dispose of their arms and accoutrements, and then marched to Hill's restaurant at the corner of Boylston and Washington streets, where breakfast was served. Afterwards they returned to the cadets' armory, resumed their arms and accoutrements, and marched to the Old Colony railroad station, to await the arrival of the rest of the regiment.

Major Oakes, in command of the detachment, reported that his journeys both to and from New York had been made without accident of any kind. I desire to call attention to the efficient manner in which his detail was performed. Upon the arrival of the second train, the delegation under the escort of the regiment proceeded to the State House, from whence, after saluting His Excellency and receiving his thanks, conveyed by the Adjutant General, the regiment was marched to headquarters, and dismissed at 11.45.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. A. BANCROFT,

Colonel.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST CORPS OF CADETS,
MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER MILITIA,
BOSTON, May 7, 1889.

Major General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General of Massachusetts.

GENERAL :—I have the honor to report that my command, in obedience to General Orders, No. 28, dated A. G. O., April 9, assembled at its armory on Sunday, April 28, at 2 o'clock P.M., in undress uniform, with knapsack, haversacks and canteens, the dress hats (shakos) in the knapsacks and the dress coats (white) packed in large portable hampers made for the purpose. Extra baggage had been sent to New York two days before.

The corps, numbering 202 officers, men and musicians, besides 6 servants (208 in all), then marched without music to the Old Colony station, and, leaving there by train at 3 o'clock P.M., with His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief and the second Corps of Cadets, and followed by a train carrying eight companies of the Fifth Regiment, proceeded to Newport, where the party boarded the steamer "Providence" for New York.

On arrival in New York on Monday morning, April 29, the party was transferred to an annex steamer and taken to the foot of West 23d Street, where, disembarking, His Excellency departed with his staff to witness the naval parade, and the troops were dismissed to quarters.

The quarters of the First and Second Corps of Cadets were at Maennerchor Hall, 203 East 56th Street, and were very comfortable.

Nothing more was done on the 29th, the men being given passes generally until 11 o'clock P.M. All were present at tattoo roll call, and the night was perfectly quiet.

On Tuesday morning, April 30, both corps, in full uniform, fell in at 8 o'clock A.M., and marched to the elevated railroad station on Second Avenue and 50th Street, where a special train was taken at 8.40 o'clock. This train was to have taken our party to Hanover Square in such time as to allow it to report in Pearl Street with the right on Whitehall Street at 9.30; but the progress was so slow that this point was not reached until 10 o'clock. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company having reported at this place a few moments before, was found representing the State. This company on our appearance retired to its position in rear of the Fifth Regiment, which arrived almost simultaneously with the cadet column. His Excellency and a portion of his staff arrived at the same time. A long wait occurred. About 11 o'clock our column moved into Whitehall Street, following the Connecticut troops, and thence with frequent halts moved through Whitehall Street into Broadway.

The head of our column had nearly reached the Post Office on Broadway when line was formed, and the President of the United States rode by, saluted by all the troops. Column was then formed again, and the troops alternately moved and halted, until the head of the Massachusetts column was in the vicinity of Canal Street, and the hour was about 2 o'clock P.M. The march then began over the prescribed route, with halts, frequent, but less tiresome. All along the route our troops were received with great enthusiasm.

On Fifth Avenue, opposite the Worth Monument, the President reviewed the column. It was dismissed at the corner of Fifth Avenue and 59th Street, and our troops returned to quarters very tired, but apparently well satisfied with their work. Liberty was given the men generally for the rest of the day and evening.

Nothing was done on the morning of Wednesday, the 1st of May, the men being granted passes until 1 o'clock P.M., the hour for dinner. At two o'clock both corps fell in and marched in full uniform, heavy order, to the foot of West 23d Street, where an annex boat took them, with eight companies of the Fifth Regiment, to the steamer "Providence" at Pier 28.

Just as the corps was about to assemble in 56th Street, an order was received from the Adjutant General, detailing Assistant Surgeon Green to attend His Excellency the Governor, who had been taken ill, and proceed with him to Boston by train.

The trip to Newport on the steamer "Providence" was uneventful. Cars were taken for Boston at 8 o'clock on Thursday morning, May 2; and on arrival home the column marched to the State House, where the Governor, who had joined at the Old Colony station, was left and saluted.

The corps then marched to its armory, and was dismissed at noon.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

THOMAS F. EDMANDS,

Lieutenant Colonel Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND CORPS OF CADETS,
MASSACHUSETTS VOLUNTEER MILITIA,
SALEM, May 15, 1889.

GENERAL: — I have the honor to submit my report of the tour of duty performed in accordance with Special Orders, No. 5. The corps (with the exception of Company D) was assembled at these headquarters on Sunday, April 28, at 11.30 A.M., and was marched without music to the Eastern Railroad depot, where it was embarked on the train leaving at 1.02 P.M. The embarkation was quietly done, no man leaving the cars after entering; and there was no noise or confusion whatever. Arriving in Boston on schedule time, the corps disembarked, and, being immediately joined by Company D, which had left Lowell via Boston & Lowell Railroad, the battalion, numbering 199 officers, men and band, was marched through Friend, Washington, Devonshire, Summer and Lincoln streets, to the Old Colony depot, and embarked on cars designated in orders. Being transferred to the steamer "Providence" at Newport, R. I., the command was assigned the ladies' saloon and cabin. The rough weather experienced in rounding "Judith" was severely felt by many, but all were enabled to report for duty on arrival in New York. After being landed from the annex boat at West 23d Street, the corps marched, under escort of the First Corps, to quarters at 203 East 56th Street, and were comfortable and nicely provided for by 10.30 A.M. Passes were immediately issued to all who desired them, and the time limit (11.30 P.M.) was faithfully kept by all.

On Tuesday, April 30, at 8 A.M., both corps proceeded to Hanover Square via 2d Avenue elevated railroad, and were afterwards formed with the entire Massachusetts representation on Whitehall Street, right resting on Broadway. Having passed over the entire route of the procession without a man leaving the ranks on account of sickness or other cause, quarters were reached at 3.40 P.M., and the men were soon after seated at dinner, from which many availed themselves of the opportunity given to witness such of the line as was still in march.

On Wednesday the industrial parade was witnessed by a large number of the men, but all were at work packing up at 12 M. After an excellent dinner at 1 P.M., the two corps left quarters and marched to West 23d Street, and were again taken by the annex boat to the "Providence" for the homeward trip. Leaving the steamer at Newport at 8 A.M., we arrived in Boston nearly on time; and, taking position on the left of the line, we proceeded to the State House. Having rendered a salute to His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, the Second Corps proceeded by the most direct route to the depot; and all, with the exception of Company D, arrived in Salem at 1.15, at once marched to the armory, and were dismissed. Company D returned to Lowell at 1 P.M.

While the tour of duty was a fatiguing one, yet every order was most promptly and cheerfully obeyed by all, and the discipline as nearly perfect as could be desired. The officers and men of the Second Corps appreciate highly the provisions made for their comfort and convenience by the State authorities, both military and otherwise; and they also desire to heartily acknowledge the extreme courtesy of Lieut. Col. Edmands, his officers and men, during the entire time the two organizations were together.

I have the honor to be your obedient servant,

J. FRANK DALTON,
Lieutenant Colonel Commanding.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, May 4, 1889.
SPECIAL ORDERS, No. 41.

The following order is hereby promulgated:—

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, BOSTON, May 3, 1889.

The Commander-in-Chief acknowledges with satisfaction the excellent duty performed under his orders by the Fifth Regiment Infantry, Col. Wm. A. Bancroft; First Corps Cadets, Lieut. Col. Thomas F. Edmands; Second Corps Cadets, Lieut. Col. J. Frank Dalton; the detachment from Ambulance Corps, First Brigade, M. V. M., and the orderlies detailed, at the centennial celebration of the inauguration of Washington as first president of the United States.

The attention to duty, discipline and soldierly bearing en route and in the city of New York reflected credit upon themselves, the militia and the Commonwealth.

The thanks of the Commander-in-Chief will be conveyed to the commands in orders.

OLIVER AMES,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

SAMUEL DALTON,
Adjutant General.

REPORTS OF COMMANDING OFFICERS.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND BRIGADE, M.V.M.,
BOSTON, Sept. 1, 1889.

Major General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General State of Massachusetts.

GENERAL : — I have the honor to submit the following report of the encampment of this command for the year 1889. The several commands were reported promptly at the hour designated in orders. Guard mounting, battalion drills, dress parades and muster were executed in accordance with the orders for the government of the camp, occupying the afternoon of the first day to advantage, and with prospects that this tour of duty would excel any previous work of the brigade.

At about midnight a heavy rain set in, which continued during Wednesday, entirely preventing the performance of any duty, and rendering the quarters of the men unfit to live in, the water in many cases being above the floors of the tents, and the streets of the camp flooded to such an extent that the water was many inches deep.

On Thursday, although but little rain fell, it continued unpleasant during the entire day. The routine of duty was closely followed, but the dampness of the field and the wet condition of the quarters and the clothing of the troops had the effect to dampen the ardor of the command. Both officers and men are to be commended for the spirit manifested in making the most of the situation, as they took advantage of every opportunity to gain knowledge of their duties on Wednesday by assembling in mess tents, etc., for instruction; remaining on the field sharing the hardship of the wet condition of the camp, as they would its pleasures in good weather.

Friday, the only full pleasant day of the tour of duty, was made use of to the best advantage possible; extra work was put in, and the whole duty of the day was performed in a very creditable manner.

Saturday at best was but of little consequence. The regular duties were performed by the infantry in the forenoon. The artillery and cavalry, being obliged to leave camp early in the day, were excused from drill. The infantry were dismissed at 12 o'clock M., and at 1 o'clock P.M., all the troops having left the field, the tour of duty came to an end.

While I am fully of the opinion that this command has made no retrograde movement, the tour of duty was not up to my expectation. I anticipated great improvement over last year. Had the weather been pleasant, without doubt my anticipations would have been realized; but, with only one full day of good weather, the troops did not have the opportunity to gain by drill what was needed. With the exception of the deviation from strict deportment and discipline on the part of a small portion of the troops on the last night of camp, the tour of duty, in my opinion, was fully as good as the previous year, and as good as could be expected with weather such as we had.

I respectfully recommend that immediate measures be taken to put the camp ground in such condition by grading, that, in case rain should prevail while troops are in camp, they would not be subjected to great inconvenience and risk of health, as they were at this encampment.

I also renew my recommendation of previous years, that the time of the annual tour of camp duty be increased. The number of days now provided is but little more than three days of actual duty; and, if rain prevails, as it did in the camp of this brigade this year, the good derived is very limited. I believe troops should go into camp on Saturday and remain until the following Saturday; this would give them five days for regular work. Other States have increased this tour of duty of the militia to more than five days; and, if Massachusetts expects her force to remain as efficient as troops of other States, she should at least give them the same opportunities for acquiring knowledge of their duties as is accorded others. I am confident that, if the troops could be allowed to encamp as suggested, we would see an improvement in the condition of our State force that would fully compensate for the additional outlay.

I fully believe that target practice should constitute one of the duties of the annual encampment; the increase of the number of days as recommended would permit of this. Under the present law, the time is so short that rifle practice, if undertaken at all in camp, is necessarily so hurried that the instruction cannot be of any great value.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully yours, etc.,

BENJ. F. PEACH, JR.

Brigadier General.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND BRIGADE, M. V. M.,
BOSTON, Oct. 12, 1889.

Major General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General State of Massachusetts.

GENERAL :— I have the honor to make the following report of the parade of this command in Lynn on the 3d instant. The several organizations reported promptly at 1 o'clock P.M., in accordance with orders from headquarters, Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The troops passed over a route three and one-half miles in length, paying a marching salute to His Honor Mayor Newhall, who, accompanied by members of the city council, was located at the city hall. The head of the column encountered a barricade on Market Street, and details of sharpshooters, and Gatling guns with infantry support, gave an illustration of the use of militia against a mob, which was witnessed by thousands of people with much satisfaction.

The column was dismissed at 3.30 o'clock P.M., and immediately took transportation from the city.

The weather was excellent, the several organizations were in fair numbers, the deportment and discipline were good; on the whole, a very satisfactory tour of duty, as, in addition to the benefit derived by the troops from this day's duty, the people in this section of the State have had an opportunity to witness nearly half of the State force fully equipped, ready for any emergency, which has given them confidence in its efficiency.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

BENJ. F. PEACH, Jr.,
Brigadier General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE, M. V. M.,
BOSTON, Sept. 10, 1889.

Major General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General of Massachusetts.

SIR :— I have the honor to report the encampment of this brigade for the year of 1889. In compliance with G. O. No. 5, c. s., control of the State camp grounds was assumed June 10. Details under par. VII. reported promptly, and were immediately placed on duty. Battery B, Troop F, and several companies of infantry (mostly from the First Regiment), arrived on the 10th, and strictly conformed to camp rules.

June 11 the several commanders of the brigade reported their commands promptly, and from a slight interference owing to heavy weather this date, the routine of duty was carried out. Considering that most of the commanding officers, all the adjutants and many other officers were in new positions, I feel that much credit is due them for their earnest efforts and able manner in which the general work was accomplished. For general results, I take great pride in congratulating officers and men.

I would impress upon all officers the importance of thorough information on all duties pertaining to the officer of the day and guard.

I desire to call your attention to the efforts of the medical department, and recommend the increase of the ambulance corps of each brigade to twenty-five, and that they be under the control of their respective brigade commanders, as now provided by law.

Fresh running water on the ground was fully appreciated.

I have to acknowledge my obligations to the Inspector General and department for many courtesies.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

B. F. BRIDGES, JR.,

Brigadier General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE, M. V. M.,
BOSTON, Nov. 9, 1889.

Major General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General, M. V. M.

SIR:—I have the honor to report the tour of duty at Worcester, Oct. 14, 1889. In compliance with G. O. No. 10, c. s. A. G. O., the First Brigade, with the exception of Troop F, assembled in Worcester, and were paraded ready for duty before the hour (10 A.M.) named in orders.

As soon as regiments were formed, they were conducted by a brigade staff officer to the agricultural grounds, where it was anticipated some benefit could be had from battalion drills; but, owing to the bad condition of the field, they did not realize as much good as anticipated. Yet considerable work was performed. The weather was so severe that great-coats were unrolled and worn during the remainder of the day. The command was rationed and mustered for pay while on these grounds.

At 1.30 P.M. the brigade was formed, and took up line of march through portions of the principal streets, passing through Main to May, Woodland and Downing; counter marching, Main to city hall, where they were reviewed by His Honor Mayor Winslow of Worcester. At 3.30 they were massed on the common. Immediately Battery B, and four companies of infantry detailed from the Second, under command of Major E. R. Shumway, gave an exhibition of street-riot duty, which I think served a double purpose, being instructive to the officers and men, and demonstrating to the public who witnessed it the efficiency of the militia in an emergency.

Total strength of the command, 2,143. Discipline was generally good. I think great benefit is derived from the mobilization of large bodies of the militia, and past experience has been valuable, but consider it a question whether the same cost would not produce better results if applied in extending our annual tour of duty in camp.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

B. F. BRIDGES, JR.,

Brigadier General.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST CORPS OF CADETS, M. V. M.,
BOSTON, July 22, 1889.

Major General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General of Massachusetts.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to report that my command went into camp at Hingham, Mass., on Saturday, July 13, leaving Boston by special train on the Old Colony Railroad at 2.45 P.M. The corps arrived in camp at 4 P.M., mounted guard promptly, and began work at once upon regular routine.

The ground has been improved by grading certain uneven portions during the past year; and a mess hall about eighty feet long by fifty feet wide has been erected, capable of seating 324 persons as at present arranged, with additional capacity, if necessary, to seat as many as 400 in all.

On Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, church service was conducted in this hall by the Rev. H. Price Collier. The congregation, beside the corps, numbered over 300 people, residents or visitors in Hingham. Saturday and Sunday were extra days. Monday, July 15, was the annual drill day of the corps; but no duty beyond an undress guard mounting, a drill in the mess hall in the manual of arms, and undress muster, was possible, owing to rain which began at daybreak and continued until nearly sunset. From Tuesday until and including Friday the weather was fine, except a shower at mid-day on Wednesday; and the whole routine of duty was carried on without interruption.

In the absence of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor, General Dalton, Adjutant General, reviewed the corps on Friday afternoon, accompanied by several members of the staff of His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief. General Dalton, as Inspector General, was on the ground when the corps arrived, and remained in camp with it during the whole tour, carefully observing all the details of duty. His presence was, as usual, a pleasure to the corps, and thanks are due to him for many excellent and practical suggestions and information.

Saturday opened with hard rain at daybreak, which continued until about 10.30 A.M., when it changed to light showers; so that the corps, in the hour that remained before its departure, was able to stow in the mess hall all property except the tents, which were too wet to strike, and were left standing in charge of a detail over Sunday. The corps returned to Boston by the noon boat, and reached its armory for dismissal at 1.45 o'clock P.M.

I have much gratification in reporting that the work performed by the battalion in this tour was conscientiously and well done, in a soldierly spirit, and with an earnest desire for improvement. I have no hesitation in expressing the opinion that this camp was the best the corps has had during my experience with it. The report of the Surgeon is enclosed herewith.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

THOMAS F. EDMANDS,
Lieutenant Colonel Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND CORPS CADETS, M. V. M.,
SALEM, MASS., Aug. 15, 1889.

Major-General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General.

SIR: — I have the honor to submit the following report of the annual encampment of this command, August 5 to 10 inclusive. In accordance with orders, the corps assembled at the armory on Monday, August 5, at 8 A.M., numbering 16 officers, 119 enlisted men, and band of 24 pieces, and left Salem by special train at 9.35 o'clock for Centennial Grove, Essex. The entire camp had been previously pitched by volunteers from the corps, and, although the rain began to fall on arrival at the grounds, the men were sheltered from it. Nothing but the work of putting tents in order was attempted, on account of rain, until 5 P.M., when the weather cleared sufficiently to allow guard mounting and dress parade to be performed.

Tuesday morning the regular routine of camp duty was begun, and continued without interruption until Saturday.

Col. A. N. Sampson, A. I. G., arrived on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, but was obliged to return to Boston at 5.40 on that afternoon.

On Wednesday during the dinner hour a remarkable hail-storm visited the camp, lasting about fifteen minutes, during which time the ground was covered with hailstones, collecting in ridges several inches deep where they had rolled off from the tent roofs. An unusual sight for August was snowballing with these hailstones, which sport was indulged in by the men for fully half an hour afterwards.

On Thursday Lieutenant Governor Brackett and staff came from Haverhill by special train, arriving in camp at 11.30 A.M., and remaining over night.

On Friday the command was reviewed by Governor Brackett at 3 P.M.

No disturbance of any kind marred the quiet and good order of the encampment, excepting the arrest of a civilian, who was detected selling liquor to spectators. He was subsequently released, on condition of instant departure from the grounds.

This encampment was in every way satisfactory. The strength of the corps was increased to 129 enlisted men after the first day. I leave details to the report of the inspector, which was submitted to your department after the conclusion of this tour of duty.

The ceremony of escorting the colors was performed every afternoon, preceding battalion drill, the companies being successively detailed for the purpose, and was well performed.

Camp was broken at noon on Saturday, the entire command, as is our custom, doing the work. We arrived in Salem about 3 o'clock.

I remain, General, your obedient servant,

J. FRANK DALTON,
Lieutenant Colonel Commanding.

HEADQUARTERS SECOND CORPS CADETS, M. V. M.,
SALEM, MASS., Oct. 12, 1889.

Major General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General.

SIR:—In accordance with Special Order No. 95, A. G. O., dated Oct. 1, 1889, and General Orders No. 8, from these headquarters, dated Oct. 4, 1889, this command assembled on Salem Common on Friday, Oct. 11, 1889, at 9 o'clock. As nearly as possible the routine of a day in camp was fully carried out, beginning with the ceremony of guard mounting, followed by company drills. Each of the companies devoted a portion of the time to skirmish drill. After lunch at noon a short street parade was made. On return to the Common, battalion drill took place, followed by muster and dress parade. Preceding battalion drill, the colors were escorted to the line by Company A, detailed for that purpose. The drill for the prize medal of the corps was also held during the afternoon.

There were present for duty 15 officers, 122 enlisted men and band of 24 pieces.

I take this occasion to say that a large portion of the absentees on this and former tours of duty was caused by the refusal of employers to allow members in their employ to attend the drill. I know of instances where the zeal of men in this command to do the duty required of them by the State has cost them their situations.

I remain, General, your obedient servant,

J. FRANK DALTON,
Lieutenant Colonel Commanding.

FIRE IN LYNN.

HEADQUARTERS EIGHTH REGIMENT INFANTRY, M. V. M.,
SALEM, Dec. 2, 1889.

Major General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General, M. V. M.

GENERAL: — I have the honor to submit the following report of the tour of duty performed by companies D, E, F, H, I and M, of this regiment, from Nov. 26 to Dec. 1, 1889, at the large fire occurring in Lynn November 26 last.

I arrived in Lynn at 5 P.M. from Boston on the 26th instant, and found companies D and I on duty, under command of Captain Brackett, by authority of His Honor Asa T. Newhall, mayor of the city of Lynn. In conference with the mayor, it was stated by him that more troops were at once necessary to aid the civil authorities; and companies H of Salem and M of Somerville were sent for. They reported at 9.35 and 10.15 P.M., respectively.

On November 27, about 9.30 A.M., companies E and K of Beverly and Salem reported for duty, making six companies on duty. At 8 A.M., November 28, Company K was relieved from further duty at the fire, and Captain Dunney ordered to report at the armory of the company in Salem, with his command, the cause of this action on my part being on account of conduct unbecoming soldiers, and of such a nature as to call for the severest measures at once. The facts of the case were promptly laid before you for your consideration.

Company F of Haverhill was ordered to duty in place of Company K, by your directions. The telegram was sent from Boston at 1.15 P.M., on the 28th; but Captain Jellison did not receive the same until nearly six, and, in consequence, was unable to report with his command until nearly midnight.

Companies D, E, F, H, I and M continued on duty of almost a continuous nature until December 1, at 6 P.M., when companies E, F, H and M were relieved from further duty, and ordered home by direction of His Honor the Mayor, companies D and I remaining on duty, under the command of Captain Brackett of Company I.

Notwithstanding the hard and almost constant service of officers and men of these companies, there was not a call made for duty, of any description, either individually or collectively, day or night, but was cheerfully and promptly complied with. The service was of such a nature as to be very trying to individual members of the several companies, they often being insulted with the vilest epithets for strictly obeying orders. In one case a member of Company I, being of slight build, was taken up and thrown bodily into the ruins, for refusing to disobey his orders, receiving injuries which lasted during his tour of duty.

I have only words of praise and commendation for the officers and men who performed this tour of duty. They performed their duty in a faithful manner, and can be relied upon in any emergency. To the officers of the field and staff and non-commissioned staff, detailed to assist me, I am specially indebted for valuable assistance. To the mayor of the city of Lynn and those in authority we are indebted for many kindnesses. In every way that they could the comfort of the men was looked after, and rubber boots and gloves were furnished for nearly the entire force.

I am, sir, very respectfully,

F. A. OSGOOD,
Colonel.

ARMORY COMPANY I, EIGHTH INFANTRY, M. V. M.,
LYNN, Dec. 6, 1889.

Major General SAMUEL DALTON, Adjutant General of Massachusetts.

GENERAL:—I have the honor to submit the following report of the tour of duty performed by companies D and I, Eighth Infantry, M. V. M., during and after the conflagration of Nov. 26, 1889, at Lynn, Mass. The fire alarm sounded at 11.55 A.M., and at 1.20 P.M. a message was received at the armory from the mayor of the city, requesting the services of the militia. Upon receipt of the legal precept of the mayor, I immediately notified you by letter, telegraphic communication with Boston having been destroyed. Ten minutes after the message was received, a squad of forty men, composed of members of both companies, under command of First Lieut. Henry B. Goodridge of Company D, reported for duty; and by 2.30 P.M. nearly every member of both companies was on duty at the fire, and so remained until 12 P.M., when they were relieved by companies H and M, Eighth Infantry, M. V. M. The troops cleared the streets for the fire department, guarded property, and did everything possible to aid the civil authorities. At 12.15 A.M., learning that Colonel Osgood had arrived, and established headquarters at the Broad Street engine house, I immediately reported to him, and he assumed command.

Sunday, December 1, at 7 P.M., I again assumed command, Colonel Osgood, Lieutenant Colonel Mills and companies H, E, M and F having been relieved from duty. The duty performed from that time until 12 M., December 5, consisted of patrol duty in and about the burnt district, and clearing and guarding the streets in the vicinity of ruins about to be blown down.

At about 6 P.M., December 3, I received the following order from the mayor : —

CITY OF LYNN, MAYOR'S OFFICE, Dec. 3, 1889.

To Capt. EBEN T. BRACKETT, Commanding Militia Force on Duty in this City.

You are hereby authorized to relieve Company D, Eighth Regiment Infantry, M. V. M., from duty this day.

Respectfully,

ASA T. NEWHALL,
Mayor.

and, as directed, relieved Company D from duty. At 11 A.M., December 5, I received the following order from the mayor, relieving me and my command from further duty : —

CITY OF LYNN, MAYOR'S OFFICE, Dec. 5, 1889.

To Capt. EBEN T. BRACKETT, Commanding Company I, Eighth Regiment Infantry, M. V. M.

SIR : — The services of your command are no longer required by the city of Lynn, and you are hereby relieved from duty.

Respectfully,

ASA T. NEWHALL,
Mayor.

The troops were quartered at their armory, and the city did everything possible for their comfort, providing excellent rations, mattresses, and, on the night of the fire, rubber boots and gloves.

The conduct of the troops was excellent, and the duties, although extremely arduous, and requiring coolness and discretion, were performed in a manner highly creditable to the State which they have the honor to serve, and to the entire satisfaction of the municipal authorities.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

EBEN T. BRACKETT,
Captain Commanding.

GENERAL ORDERS.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Jan. 19, 1889.

GENERAL ORDERS NO. 1.*

I. The following is published for the information of the militia:—

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
SURGEON GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Jan. 18, 1889.

CIRCULAR No. 1.

The Ambulance Corps, M. V. M., will, until further instructions, thoroughly review the work of last winter, as ordered in Circular No. 2, dated Oct. 8, 1887. In addition to this, they will be instructed in the improvising and applying of temporary splints. As the temporary splinting of broken bones is all-important to ensure the comfortable transportation of wounded suffering with such injuries, to encourage the training of the soldiers of the Ambulance Corps in preparing and applying such splints, the following prizes are offered to each corps:—

To the soldier making and applying the neatest and best temporary long splint for a broken thigh, ten dollars. To the soldier making the neatest and best temporary splint for a leg broken below the knee, or for an arm broken above the elbow, five dollars. These splints may be made of straw, bark, brush, pieces of boards, or such other material as would probably be found in the vicinity of a battle-field. The material must, of course, be obtained outside the armories; but the work of preparing the splints and their application to the plaster forms (if these are used), must be done in the armories and under the supervision of the ambulance officer or the sergeant of the corps. Further, these splints must be made with the knives, scissors, bandages, etc., supplied by the State, except that an axe or hatchet may be used.

The surgeon general and the medical directors of brigades will constitute a board to award these prizes.

These corps will be inspected and the prizes awarded in the first brigade at its first regular meeting in May, 1889; and the second brigade at its second regular meeting in May, 1889. No prizes will be awarded unless there are at least seven competitors in each corps.

A. F. HOLT,
Surgeon General.

OFFICIAL:

SAMUEL DALTON,
Adjutant General.

II. The Commander-in-Chief commends the efficient duty of Company C, Eighth Infantry, while under precept of the selectmen of Marblehead, and the following is published for the information of the State force : —

To the Adjutant General, M. V. M.

We, the undersigned Board of Selectmen of the town of Marblehead, desire to thank the officers and members of Company C, Eighth Regiment, M. V. M., of this town, for the promptness with which they responded to our call on the night of Dec. 25, 1888, and the efficient and military manner in which they performed their whole duty. When the precept was served, the armory and all military property was in ruins ; but, by the prompt and decided action of Capt. Beede, he had his command on duty, armed and equipped, in less than five hours, and the duty performed was most satisfactory to us and to the citizens of the town.

the service of the Commonwealth, as the governor and council shall determine.

SECT. 2. Said commissioners shall acquire for the city of Boston, by purchase or otherwise, two suitable lots of land in different parts of the city, and shall erect on each lot a suitable building for an armory capable of furnishing accommodations for twelve companies of infantry, for such companies of artillery, cavalry, signal and ambulance corps and detachments of the militia and for such of the militia headquarters located in said city, and such rooms for company, battalion and regimental drill and the care of state property as they may deem necessary, and shall, in the same manner, acquire, in each city in which two or more companies of militia are located, a suitable lot of land, and erect thereon a suitable building for an armory capable of furnishing accommodations for as many companies and militia headquarters and detachments of the militia as are located in such city, and such rooms for drills and care of state property as the commissioners deem necessary: provided, however, that no land shall be acquired until the site has been approved by the governor and council; and no building shall be erected until the plans thereof have been so approved.

SECT. 5. Whenever the governor and council shall file with the auditor of the Commonwealth a statement showing the amount determined by agreement or verdict as the value of any property purchased or taken by said commissioners, the auditor shall certify such amount, and a warrant shall be made therefor, as in the case of other lawful payments from the treasury of the Commonwealth; and, upon the execution of such release or conveyance as shall be prescribed by the attorney-general, the treasurer shall pay to the party in interest the sum to which he is entitled, as aforesaid, and all sums necessary therefor are hereby appropriated.

SECT. 7. The treasurer and receiver-general shall, on issuing any of said scrip or certificates of debt, establish a sinking fund and apportion thereto, from year to year, an amount sufficient with its accumulations to extinguish the debt at maturity. The amount required each year to pay the interest and sinking fund requirements for the loan contracted for such armories shall be included in and made a part of the sum charged to the city in which such armory is located, and shall be assessed upon it in the apportionment and assessment of its annual tax; and the treasurer and receiver-general shall in each year notify each such city of the assessment, which amount shall be paid by such city into the treasury of the Commonwealth at the time required for the payment of its state tax, and after said debt has been extinguished no rent shall be paid for the use of said armories by the Commonwealth.

SECT. 8. When said armories, or any of them, have been completed, and so long as they are used for armories, they shall be under the exclusive control of the adjutant-general, under the orders of the commander-in-chief, and all expenses of the care, furnishing and repairs of the same shall be paid by the Commonwealth, and provided for in the annual appropriation for the militia.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

SAMUEL DALTON,
Adjutant General.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, BOSTON, Sept. 9, 1889.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 8.

I. The State rifle matches will take place at the State camp ground, South Framingham, on Thursday, September 26. There will be a staff team match, a company team match, an officers' match and an enlisted men's match. Officers and men will appear in fatigue uniform.

II. The matches will be in charge of Col. H. T. Rockwell, Inspector General of Rifle Practice, who will arrange details, and be responsible for their proper execution. All communications respecting these matches should be addressed to Colonel Rockwell.

III. Each company team will consist of seven members and one substitute (officers permitted on the team), and will be under command of a commissioned officer. The staff teams will consist of five members and one substitute (officers and non-commissioned officers attached to any headquarters being eligible). No person will be eligible for team or individual entry unless mustered in previous to August 1, and unless he has performed at least one-half of all State duty, prescribed by General Statute, to which he has been liable during the year. Non-marksmen are not eligible for entry unless recruited since Nov. 1, 1888; and no entry of a team will be received unless a majority thereof are qualified marksmen. The formal award of prizes will not be promulgated before October 15. Records of "State duty" performed up to that date will be considered, with reference to the eligibility of competitors.

IV. Shooting will begin at 8.30 o'clock A.M. The targets will be assigned by lot, and the order of shooting will be communicated to company commanders September 21. If, for reasons relating to transportation only, any company commander desires a change of hour, he must communicate forthwith with Colonel Rockwell, who will exercise his discretion in the matter.

V. In the team competition the number of rounds to be fired per man will be seven, without sighting shots. Competitors will provide their own ammunition. The rifle used by each competitor must be that issued by the State to his headquarters or company, with sights properly pertaining to the piece. Rifles must not be wiped during the competition. Minimum trigger pull, six pounds, to be tested before or during the competition. Position, standing. Violation of any rule, or any act of carelessness, will debar the offender. Any team or competitor aggrieved by a decision of the executive officer, may enter a protest with him, and he will forward the same to the Adjutant General. No challenges of marking or non-marking will be permitted, except at the discretion of the executive officer.

VI. Entries of company teams (which embody the required certificate of company qualification) and of individual competitors must be received at this office on or before September 20. They shall go through regular channels; but duplicates sent direct will be received if on time, otherwise not. Commanding officers will observe the notes on return and entry blanks. (As the team entry and general return of company practice are upon one blank, this supersedes the necessity of making any other returns of practice than the final returns of individual qualification to be forwarded November 1.) Officers, either of headquarters or companies, may enter outside of the team limits.

Pay and transportation will be allowed to the officers and members of teams, to the officers and men detailed to conduct the competitions, and to all other officers and men ordered to participate in the matches.

Commanders will have muster and assignment rolls in readiness at the close of the competition for muster by the officer detailed for that duty.

VII. Paymaster R. W. Sutton, Fifth Infantry, is hereby detailed as mustering officer, and will report to the Adjutant General for instruction before the date assigned for the match.

VIII. The trophies to be competed for will be as follows: For staff teams, one trophy; for company teams, four trophies; also for the team (excluding the first four) making the best gain in points compared with 1888, one trophy; also for teams using carbines, one trophy. For staff officers, two trophies, and for line officers, three trophies. For enlisted men, three trophies, and one additional for the best score in each regiment of infantry; also one for the best score in each cadet corps, in the signal and ambulance corps (combined), and in the cavalry using carbines, — if neither of the first four trophies are won by members of the corps named. All competitors in the team matches making centres or better on their team score will continue shooting for seven additional shots. Other competitors for individual prizes will follow the same rule; and the aggregates of fourteen shots will determine the winners of individual prizes.
